Laxity Denied By MacDonald

Opening the defense of Public Works Commr. Herman A. MacDonald today, Atty John A. Daly declared the prosecution had failed to sustain its charges against him and promised to prove that he had prosecuted the Logan airport development vigorously and the highway program as swiftly as possible. "We plan to show your Excellency that not one cent of federal funds has been lost to the State and that Commr. MacDonald was not derelict in the conduct of his office, charges that the prosecution has not sustained," Atty. Daly declared to Gov. Tobin in his opening.

H. A. Congdon M. A. Morrissey

As his first witness he summoned Philip H. Kitfield, assistant projects engineer of the public works department and questioned him in detail on the federally aided highway program.

Kitfield testified that at the present time there was $10,260,000 available for highway projects, and when Daly asked him about the prosecution contention that $30,000,000 was available in federal funds, he answered:

"Oh, no. The maximum amount appropriated by the Legislature was only $10,000,000. They would have to appropriate $20,000,000 to have $30,000,000 available."

Recalling the prosecution claim that MacDonald had obtained approval on only $1,300,000 in federally aided projects, Daly asked what amount had been approved.

"As of March 20, the date the charges were preferred against the commissioner, the Public Roads Administration had approved $3,222,000 in projects and of these $1,300,000 had been advertised and bids received," Kitfield explained.

He testified the PRA had approved complete plans for a total of $5,040,500 in projects and that the department had plans finished for $15,882,500 in highway projects.

In addition, he said, there were plans 50 per cent completed for additional projects totaling $12,470,000.

Commr. MacDonald last October had approved, for the fiscal year ending in 1946, about $9,500,000 in highway projects and for the next two fiscal years of approximately $40,000,000, Kitfield testified.

He was still on the stand when the hearing recessed for luncheon.

Earlier Atty. Daniel S. Lyne had rested his case saying he had nothing more to present after testimony from several public works department employees.

One, Harold A. Congdon, an engineer, provided laughter when he told of lotteries conducted in the department.

"Sure, we had a lottery on bonds," he said, when questioned by Lyne. "Commr. MacDonald won

Reds Far Behind In Jap Election; 9 Women Win

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, April 11 (AP)—Three major parties tonight were running a close race for membership of Japan's 468-seat House of Representatives. Communists were trailing far behind. Nine women appeared certain of election.

Scattered nation-wide results from yesterday's first postwar election gave the Social Democrats 25 seats, Progressives 24 and Liberals 23. Communists were certain of only three so far. At least six Independents and one People's Party candidate also were elected.

Results still are too incomplete to indicate the final makeup of the House.

Premier Shidehara's cabinet sparkplug, Chief Secretary Narahashi, was elected from Fukuoka Prefecture on Kyushu.

Narahashi immediately announced the Shidehara cabinet would remain in office at least until convocation of the next special Diet session, probably May 10.

Kyuchi Tokuda, secretary general of the Communist party, who led a 14-man committee into Shidehara's office Monday to demand the premier's immediate resignation, was one of the Communists definitely elected.

Reds Rap Hirohito As War Criminal

MOSCOW, April 11 (AP)—Pravda commentator Boris Gorbachev said today the average Japanese told him when he was in Tokyo recently that Emperor Hirohito should be tried as a war criminal along with former Premier Tojo.

The Communist Party organ's commentator declared, however, the Emperor has many defenders, "and not only in Japan."

Gorbachev said the only political party advocating the elimination of the Emperor is the Communist Party. He added that foreign observers took the point of view the emperor should go and said the American press referred to the Emperor as war criminal number one.

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP)—Police at the Hyde Park station yesterday met up with a situation entirely foreign to the usual case involving lost children.

The 3-year-old girl who strayed from her South Side home did a lot of talking after a squad car took her to the station. So did officers as they attempted to learn the child's name and address.

No progress was made in their conversations for nearly two hours until Mrs. Frances Moreau, 32, came to claim her daughter.

Mother and daughter, embracing, exchanged happy greetings—in French—as the gentlemen smiled.

Mrs. Moreau told police she and her husband, Pierre, and daughter Coelle, came here from Paris five months ago and Coelle spoke only French.

2 Ships Bring Hub Sugar As Wage Parley Continues

While housewives listed sugar beside butter in the hard-to-get column, commercial users were cheered today by news that two shiploads of refined sugar from the West Indies have been assigned to Boston.

Meanwhile, efforts to avert the threatened strike of 7000 CIO and AFL refinery workers in East Coast cities, 1000 of them in Boston, continued in Washington and "definite progress" was reported. At issue is a union demand for a wage increase of 15 cents and a company offer of 13 cents, with a strike called for midnight Saturday.

The two ships are carrying sugar refined in the Caribbean and one is due in New York Sunday, the other next Thursday. There the cargoes will be unloaded and sent here by freight car. The OPA has insisted it shall supervise all sales, leading to the belief only essential commercial users will have access to the two cargoes.

The two Boston refineries which process raw sugar, in South Boston and Charlestown, are shut down in anticipation of a strike. John W. Lowe, manager of the Revere Sugar Co. plant in Charlestown, said a week's supply of raw sugar was on hand but refining would not be resumed "until we believe it practicable."

Dedication of F. D. Home Tomorrow

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 11 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt's home and grave site will be dedicated by President Truman as a national shrine tomorrow in ceremonies commemorating the first anniversary of the President's death.

President Truman's speaking platform will be the white-pillared, stone porch from which the late President greeted torchlight processions of Hyde Park neighbors on victorious election nights.

Mrs. Roosevelt will present the estate to the Interior Dept. The ceremonies will be broadcast over three national networks from 2:30 to 3 p. m.

ered as a possible site of the interim headquarters, was chosen as office headquarters, the mayor added.

The announcement was made after a 20-minute meeting this morning between Trygve Lie, UN secretary general; Grover Whalen, assisting UN officials in seeking a satisfactory site, and the board of estimate of New York city.

O'Dwyer said the city had agreed to advance $1,250,000 for improving the Flushing Meadow park and the interior of the municipal building, now used as a skating rink.

The municipal building is contemplated for meetings of the general assembly.

The mayor said Lie and the board of estimate entered into a "verbal agreement" on the plan to use the old world's fair site.

In reporting that the Sperry plant would be used for offices, the mayor added that the city was guaranteeing that housing units to accommodate 4000 persons employed by the UN would be situated somewhere within the city and would be ready for occupancy by Jan. 1.

The city building in the old world's fair grounds would be available for use by Sept. 1, the mayor said. The United Nations general assembly will meet in New York Sept. 3.

Selection of the world's fair site was announced suddenly, apparently ending the quandary in which the United Nations found itself over a home to be used until permanent buildings are ready.

The Security Council has met in the Hunter College gymnasium in the Bronx and it is contemplated that the council will continue to meet there at least until the U. N. contract for this site expires May 15.

The council delegates journeyed to the Sperry plant last Friday and surveyed that site thoroughly. Some delegates privately expressed dissatisfaction that the site was 22 miles from New York.

Fire Suspect's Bail $10,000

Wilfred H. Baetz, 35, Newbury st., Back Bay, an elegantly dressed radio script writer and a firebug of record, was held in $10,000 in municipal court today for a hearing April 20, charged with arson in connection with one of three Back Bay fires yesterday, the worst of which cost eight lives.

Here's Arson Suspect's Police Record

Wilfred H. Baetz, Newbury st., 35-year-old radio script writer, who was charged with arson today in the $10,000 fire at an Irvington st. apartment house blaze yesterday, a fire closely following the one in Belvidere st., which cost eight lives, has the following record, according to police:

Sept. 28, 1944, he was found guilty in Norfolk Superior Court on three counts of arson, drawing a three-to-five-year suspended sentence and probation until 1948.

The same day, also in Norfolk Superior Court, he was given a year in jail for attempted arson.

Oct. 5, 1944, he was brought into Suffolk Superior Court, charged with arson, and given a three-to-five-year sentence, suspended, and probation for four years. The first year was to run concurrently with his jail sentence.

On the same date, in the Suffolk court, he was convicted of attempted arson and sentenced to nine months, the term to begin after he served "the" jail sentence.

Oct. 1, 1945, less than a year later, he was paroled.

Baetz' police record began Nov. 22, 1933, when he was arrested for drunkenness.

He was picked up on the arson charges in connection with fires at the Hotel Putnam, Huntington ave.; the near-by Lobster Claw restaurant, and four Brookline blazes, two in a Beacon st. hotel, one in Vernon st. and another in Griggs rd.

Baetz was charged with setting the blaze which caused $10,000 damage to an Irvington st. apartment house, a fire that closely followed the Belvidere st. tragedy, wherein three small children and a policeman were among the victims.

Mayor Curley today made the fires the issue of a city-wide drive against all construction which is found to be a menace to public safety or health, announcing that Bldg. Commr. John Mahoney has made a list of 200 buildings which will be condemned.

Curley, who yesterday declared that he had noted debris and old clothing cluttering fire escapes on buildings adjacent to the Belvidere st. blaze, only 20 feet away, arranged for the anti-fire trap drive at a conference with his department heads.

Present was Police Commr. Sullivan, who said he would have the force report fire and health hazards noted in the regular performance of duty.

Building inspectors and water meter readers have been instructed to turn in violators of the fire and health laws. Dist. Atty. Foley has pledged co-operation in prosecuting real estate owners who ignore warnings. Corp. Counsel Scolopetti stated he would assign members of his staff to the campaign.

In the meantime, householders, disquieted by Fire Commr. Codman's report the three Back Bay fires yesterday were all the work of a firebug, focused their attention on the municipal court proceedings.

Baetz, a dark-haired six-footer who, according to police, described himself as a friend of Lawrence Tibbett, John Charles Thomas and other singer celebrities, appeared without counsel.

The clerk of court asked if he wanted a hearing at once.

"Yes," said Baetz in a firm voice. "I'm not guilty. I plead not guilty, sir."

Lt. Jeremiah J. Sullivan of the State Police told Judge Riley he wanted a continuance, because it was planned to round up witnesses for the state.

The judge asked if Baetz had a record.

A probation officer answered, "Yes, for the same thing; he is on probation until 1945."

Baetz made no demurrer to the continuance or the amount of bail, although he did not post the surety immediately.

Police said their records showed he had served time for arson, had been given two 3-to-5-year suspended sentences for the same crime and had been paroled Oct. 1, 1945. He had been taken into custody after fires in Boston and Brookline which jeopardized lives in 1944.

Baetz' counsel at that time, Samuel Bithoney, told Judge Hurley, who ordered one of the prison sentences, that although his client had pleaded guilty, the acts of arson and attempted arson had been alcoholic impulses and motives.

Baetz, it was testified, had set two Back Bay fires the night of Aug. 2, 1944, one in the closet of a room he had engaged in the Hotel Putnam, Huntington ave. In a restaurant near-by, the Lobster Claw, he had cut a cushion with a knife, inserted two cards of matches with a lighted match, then fled, the court was told.

The radio writer occupied public attention in 1940 when he complained to police he had been kidnaped in front of his home, then in Brighton, by a group of

Lt. Jeremiah J. Sullivan of the State Police told Judge Riley he wanted a continuance, because it was planned to round up witnesses for the state.

The judge asked if Baetz had a record.

A probation officer answered, "Yes, for the same thing; he is on probation until 1945."

Baetz made no demurrer to the continuance or the amount of bail, although he did not post the surety immediately.

Police said their records showed he had served time for arson, had been given two 3-to-5-year suspended sentences for the same crime and had been paroled Oct. 1, 1945. He had been taken into custody after fires in Boston and Brookline which jeopardized lives in 1944.

Baetz' counsel at that time, Samuel Bithoney, told Judge Hurley, who ordered one of the prison sentences, that although his client had pleaded guilty, the acts of arson and attempted arson had been alcoholic impulses and motiveless.

Baetz, it was testified, had set two Back Bay fires the night of Aug. 2, 1944, one in the closet of a room he had engaged in the Hotel Putnam, Huntington ave. In a restaurant, near-by, the Lobster Claw, he had cut a cushion with a knife, inserted two cards of matches with a lighted match, then fled, the court was told.

The radio writer occupied public attention in 1940 when he complained to police he had been kidnapped in front of his home, then in Brighton, by a group of

Boston Oratory Victors Await Eastern Finals

The two Boston winners in the local finals of the 1946 Hearst Newspapers National Oratorical Contest today won the right to compete in the Eastern zone finals to be held in Boston Latin School April 24, and, if their success continues, will enter the national finals May 2. The finals also will be held in the Latin School.

Both winners will receive $250 in Victory bonds. Bridge Party Stalled

Mrs. Truman, 10 Pals Too Busy

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—The ladies of Mrs. Harry S. Truman's Independence, Mo., bridge club were far, far too busy today for bridge. The 10 visitors from Missouri, guests at the White House, began with a visit to the executive offices.

A smile from the President sent them on their way on a sightseeing trip in two limousines. Mrs. Truman acting as guide in one car and Miss Margaret Truman in the other.

Back to the executive mansion shortly after noon, the guests freshened up for a Lenten luncheon.

The afternoon schedule included a tea at Blair House, the nation's residence for distinguished foreign guests, and tonight Mrs. Truman and her guests are to attend the Shrine Circus.

Other events planned include a Potomac river cruise on the presidential yacht Williamsburg, with just the barest possibility that the ladies may be able to play a bit of bridge on the after deck.

Five of the women who have been Mrs. Truman's close friends for 25 years arrived in Washington by plane and the other five, including the First Lady's sister-in-law, Mrs. George Wallace, motored from Missouri.

'Sweet Adeline'

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—The mellow and harmonizing tones of famed "Sweet Adeline" rang through President Truman's office today.

The serenade came from John F. Fitzgerald, onetime mayor of Boston and father-in-law of former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy.

Fitzgerald, accompanied by Roscoe Pryor and Frank Davis, called on Mr. Truman to invite the President to attend a Maritime Day celebration in the Bay State capital.

The President said he would be unable to attend the specific celebration, but hoped to visit Boston early in June.

Fitzgerald whispered to reporters as he left the White House that he gave his famous rendition of "Sweet Adeline" while in Mr. Truman's office.

$10,000 Loot In 3d Break at Brookline Shop

For the third time in a year, a gang of thieves smashed their way into the store of Best & Co., Beacon st., Brookline, and after an unsuccessful attempt to crack a large safe carted off between $10,000 and $15,000 worth of women's furnishings. Two other breaks in Brighton, in which $2000 worth of clothes were taken from a women's dress shop and $200 worth of fountain pens from a gift shop, were attributed to the same gang.

Entrance to Bests was made by climbing a fire escape and smashing a window. At least five shots from a revolver were fired in a vain attempt to blow off the combination of an office safe. Failing, the mob systematically loaded themselves down with the highest priced merchandise in the store.

Officials, who began inventory to estimate the loss, said that more than one automobile would be needed to carry off the clothing.

Two months ago, thieves carted away a smaller safe containing several thousand dollars from the same store and Jan. 31, 1945, a gang looted the store of $10,000 worth of merchandise.

In Brighton, the thieves went to the roof and lowered themselves through a skylight by a rope ladder into Barton's fashion shop, on Washington st.

They used the same ladder and the same method to get into the Sterling gift shop next door.

Marion L. Hale Parsons, 29, wife of an Army veteran who pointed the way for a police raid on a Back Bay apartment.

April 1, and Russell Mills, 29, of Stoneham, drew suspended sentences of three months each pleading guilty to morals charges in Municipal Court.

Police said the couple were found in a Marlboro st. apartment when officers were led to the address by Mrs. Parsons' husband, Gordon S. Parsons of Garland st., Everett, who received his Army discharge in December.

Jailed 13 Years, Girl Delinquent Set Free

Over the objections of the State Parole Board, which has been under fire for severity toward women prisoners, Lulu Laham, 26, of Lakeview ave., Natick, was ordered released from parole obligations today after spending half of her life in State institutions as the result of only one conviction—and that as a stubborn child at the age of 13.

She was released under parole from the Women's Reformatory, Feb. 21. Today the restrictions of her parole were lifted by Judge Robert G. Wilson, Jr., upon recommendations of Dr. Miriam Van Waters, superintendent of the reformatory, and Asst. Atty. Gen. Conde Brodine.

Brodine told the court the only objection to Miss Laham's formal release from parole had been registered by the parole board.

Freed, the overjoyed woman threw her arms around Dr. Van Waters and was warmly embraced in turn. The women's reformatory head testified that Lulu Laham, at 13, had been sent to Lancaster as a stubborn child but had been unruly there. At the request of Lancaster officials, she related, a district court judge in Clinton had committed the girl to Bridge-water as a defective delinquent, although she was not even allowed to appear in court.

"She was never before the judge who committed her to 'life imprisonment,'" Dr. Van Waters asserted. "In fact," she added, "it could send anyone away for life under the defective delinquent statute."

After Miss Laham came under her care, Dr. Van Waters said, psychiatrists and psychologists found she had an intelligence quotient of 89 and was pronounced a normal person in a "dull group."

Senate Group Backs Year's Draft Extension

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The Senate military committee recommended today a full year extension of the draft act and sent along several different service pay increase plans for Senate consideration.

The various pay increase proposals included:

Sen. Gurney's plan for increasing the pay of enlisted men. Lowest grades would be boosted from present $50 monthly to $65, with staggered increases giving top grades $140 compared with the present $138.

A bill by Senator Maybank (D.) of South Carolina, which would grant $50 additional monthly to all officers and men of the armed services while serving at sea or outside the United States.

A bill by Chairman Thomas which would provide a flat 120 per cent pay increase for all men and officers in the armed services.

On the other side of the Capitol a House military subcommittee withdrew a previous recommendation for a flat $400 a year increase and voted this sliding scale of boosts:

Back private, $50 to $75 monthly; first class private, $54 to $80; corporals, $58 to $90; sergeants, $78 to $100; staff sergeants, $94 to $113; technical sergeants, $114 to $135; first and master sergeants, $138 to $165. Second lieutenants, $1800 to $2100 annually; first lieutenants, $2000 to $2400; captains, $2400 to $2640; majors, $3000 to $3300; lieutenant colonels, $3500 to $3800; colonels, $4000 to $4400. For army chief warrant officers the committee recommended a raise from $2100 to $2220 annually, while for naval crews from $124 to $150.

4 Children Saved as 11 Flee Blaze in Roxbury

Eleven persons, four of them children, were forced to flee early today as fire, apparently starting from spontaneous combustion in a second-floor closet, spread through a three-family house in St. James ter., Roxbury, causing damage estimated at $3000.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Irving Wilson, wife of a Coast Guard ensign, who awoke and found her kitchen in flames. She aroused her brother, William Beals, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Anna Wilson of New York, visiting there with her 4-year-old daughter, Corinne. Beals aroused other occupants.

Pleads Guilty to Morals Charge

Nord Polygamy Witness Guilty In Morals Raid

BROCKTON, April 11—Arrested in a police vice squad raid on an Arch st. apartment at 2 a. m., Mrs. Miliona Gagne, 29, of Quincy, mother of two children, and Gordon Shadrick, 27, pleaded guilty to morals charges in district court today.

Judge William G. Rowe gave each a two months suspended sentence and placed the couple on probation for one year.

Sgt. Thomas Delaney said the couple had occupied the two-room apartment for the past six weeks and their presence there was reported to police by the woman's husband, Bentley Gagne of Quincy.

Mrs. Gagne recently appeared in West Roxbury court to testify for her mother, Mrs. Mabel Nord of Quincy, in an involved polygamy case against Frederick C. Nord, 50, Hyde Park decorator, following his marriage to Eunice Jerome, Hyde Park nurse.

Mrs. Gagne agreed to drop her charges, however, and Judge Daniel W. Casey dismissed the case. At that time, Mrs. Gagne's husband was on hand to testify for Nord.

British Illusions

LIVERPOOL, April 11 (INS)

—C. P. Kuykendall, American consul in Liverpool, appealed to British GI brides today to consult him before sailing for the U. S. if they were best with doubts or fears.

Kuykendall, alarmed at the number of wrecked GI marriages, said:

"If only the parents of some of these girls had consulted me first, some of these marriages probably could have been prevented."

"Lots of these girls have the idea that they are going to a land made up exclusively of ice cream and candy."

SS Police Head Goes on Trial

NUERNBERG, April 11 (AP)

—Tall, saber-scarred Ernest Kaltenbrunner, chief of Nazi security police, opened his fight for life today with a declaration to the International Military Tribunal that "I know the hatred of the whole world is directed against me."

He said he was the target of this hatred partly because both Himmler and Himmler's Gestapo chief are dead, "leaving me the only man to face the world and answer for them."

Kaltenbrunner said he was ready to assume responsibility for the acts of the police he headed "as far as they occurred under my actual control."

The tribunal was told in an affidavit Kaltenbrunner had attempted to negotiate peace through American agents in Portugal and Switzerland in 1943 and encouraged Hitler to seek peace through the Vatican.

Mystery Fogs Lana's Trip To N. Y.; Wedding Ahead?

HOLLYWOOD, April 11—Lana Turner, glamorous blonde movie star, told Louella O. Parsons, INS motion picture editor, today that she will fly to New York this week-end with her baby and nurse, perhaps to marry Charles P. Jaeger, 38-year-old executive of the American Broadcasting Co. Miss Turner, describing Jaeger as "just what I want," said she had received a proposal of marriage from him and has not turned him down.

The actress added: "There are no definite plans. At the end of the week I am leaving for New York with my baby and her nurse."

"I don't know what will happen. I can only say that Mr. Jaeger is a wonderful man and that I like him very much indeed. He's tall and he's very handsome. He's just what I want."

The MGM glamour girl met Jaeger, who is vice-president in charge of creative sales for A.B.C., after her recent return from South America. She said they were introduced at a party given by Mrs. Helen Forester in New York.

Miss Turner was the wife of hand leader Artie Shaw and of Steve Crane, who currently operates a Hollywood restaurant.

The actress has been linked romantically with Turkish actor Turhan Bey, Atty. Greg Bautzer and other men about town.

Jaeger was divorced two weeks ago from his wife of nine years, the former Powers model, Loretta White.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 11 (AP)—A 23-year-old mother and her war veteran companion, accused of assaulting the former's young daughter, were held today under $1500 bond while awaiting trial April 17.

The pair, Mrs. Evelyn Shay and

Mrs. Shay H. M. Hubert

Harvey M. Hubert, 31, were arraigned yesterday in police court on charges growing out of the beating of 4-year-old Rose Shay, in serious condition in St. Mary's Hospital.

The prosecutor said the little girl had been beaten and the soles of her feet were burned. Police reported Hubert had told them he lashed the child with a leather belt and that the mother said she slapped Rose several times.

The child was punished because "she didn't do as she was told," police said the pair told them.

10-Million Jump In City Expense

The Boston municipal research bureau reported today that the cost of operating the city departments, exclusive of welfare, is up $10,000,000 from prewar levels with $4 of every $5 concentrated in only six of the city's more than 40 departments.

In these six departments, public works, police, fire, hospital and library departments, the report said, current requirements are $2,000,000 in excess of what was paid to operate them a year ago.

To cope with the rising costs, the bulletin recommended an administrative overhaul and declared the "Finance Commission, given additional funds, should do the job."

It pointed out that city officials, involved in day-to-day activities, could not be expected to overhaul their own departments.

Man's Red Pajamas Get 'Jam' Into Jam

SALEM, April 11—Claiming his wife ordered him out of the house and threatened to have two of her boy friends throw him out if he didn't leave in a hurry, John Harold McLaughlin, 38, Beacon Hill Ave., Lynn, today sought custody of his two children.

The youngsters are Bruce McLaughlin, 10, his wife's son by a former marriage but adopted by McLaughlin, and Carol, 7.

Opposing the action, in Salem Probate Court, was the mother, Mrs. Jeanette A. McLaughlin, 34, Ropes st., Salem, a waitress. McLaughlin, a Navy veteran, said he first learned of his wife's interest in other men at the time of his discharge from service last fall, when he discovered a pair of men's red silk pajamas in her apartment, also a picture of a soldier and letters signed "Al."

Several times, he said, he was awakened during the night by telephone calls from men asking for "Jam," a nickname spelled from his wife's initials.

Once his wife informed him he and the children were "in her way," McLaughlin testified, and her chief interests were in money and traveling.

Judge Phelan continued the case to May 8.

Britain Asks U. S. Cut Fats

LONDON, April 11 (INS)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee plainly indicated today that if Britain is to cut down her consumption of fats and oils, as requested by the United States, then the United States should reduce her consumption to British levels.

Attlee told Commons that his government has offered to ration bread if the producing countries would follow suit since all important nations are affected by the world food situation.

He said the shortage could be combated only by common effort and added the same principle should apply in the consumption of oil and fats.

Britain, Attlee said, is pledged to do its utmost to avert the "risk of widespread famine and starvation."

Nylons Scarce Until Late 1947

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—A duPont company representative asserted today there is no prospect of an ample supply of nylon stockings until the "later part of next year."

Warren A. Beh, director of nylon sales for the firm, made the forecast to the Senate small business committee investigating the women's hosiery shortage.

Beh explained there was no chance of increasing the present production of 30,000,000 pairs a month until a new nylon yarn plant now under construction is completed.

The new plant will not be in full production until midsummer of 1947.

GUINNESS

Ever tried it?

There's more body to Guinness Stout—more flavour, and more cheer in it than the brews you're accustomed to.

Guinness is great if you're underweight. Great before or with meals... when you're tired... any time you're thirsty. Famous the world over as a nightcap.

Brewed in Dublin, Ireland, since 1759 of barley, water, hops and special Guinness yeast—nothing else. Matures in its vat and in bottle until consumed.

Due to export controls and service needs, GUINNESS is hard to find. But it will be back here again before long. EDWARD & JOHN BIRKE, LTD., Long Island City 1, New York. Sole U. S. Distributors. GI-248

Bulge Massacre Fugitives Called

FRANKFURT, April 11 (AP)—Six survivors of the Malmédy massacre of nearly 100 American war prisoners returned today to sharpen their memories of the terrible event for testimony they will give at the trial May 2 of 75 German S. S. troops accused in the killings.

Grim tight-lipped some fearful, they stood in the very field where the Nazis machine-gunned helpless captives taken in the battle of the Bulge.

It was only by luck the six escaped—some by playing dead.

Stars and Stripes identified the witnesses as Virgil P. Lary, Lexington, Ky.; Omar D. Ford, Leighton, Mo.; Samuel Dobyns, Sandusky, O.; Carl R. Douth, Colebrook, Pa.; Kenneth E. Kingstone, Allentown, Pa., and Kenneth F. Ahrens, Erie, Pa.

WASHINGTON, April 11 (INS)—A Chicago meat packing official today told the Senate committee on agriculture and forestry a large amount of the beef business has been channeled out of legitimate hands into the black market.

The accusation was made by R. G. Haynie, vice-president of Wilson & Co., Inc., meat packers. Haynie asserted out of 14 major cattle slaughterers operating in 1941 in the New York area, only four still are operating under the same name, in the same plant and on the same basis as they were in that period.

Meanwhile, he explained, the slaughter of cattle in the New York area has increased, but the four established firms saw their share of the business decline more than two-thirds, while newcomers were enjoying a three-fold increase.

The same four packers in February, 1941, shipped 13,761,000 pounds of beef and veal to Boston, but in February, 1946, only 3,472,000 pounds, a decrease of 75 per cent.

SHANGHAI, April 11 (AP)—The prosecution asked the death penalty today for all four Japanese officer defendants charged with execution of three Doolittle fliers.

Final summation in the three weeks' trial will end tomorrow and a verdict by the military commission is expected next week.

The Charles H. Alward Post, American Legion, will hold a public mass installation at Mansion Inn, Coquitlam, Sunday.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 11 (AP)—Machines driven in opposite directions by two brothers on a narrow road near here last night crashed together. Harold Tevbaugh, 22, driving an automobile, was killed. Oscar, driving a truck, was hurt.

Why the Third Finger, Left Hand?

The ancients believed that the vein of love ran from the third finger directly to the heart. Edward VI, in the Book of Common Prayer, in 1549, ordained the use of the left hand, and all English speaking peoples now follow this custom.

University and Emerson College are also World War II veterans, Chisholm having served with the Army and Miss Lawley being a recently discharged WAC.

Runners-up in the high school finals, who receive equal Victory Bond awards with the college group, are:

Cathedral High School: Henry Fandel, Weld st., Roxbury.

Roxbury Memorial High School: Harriet Enlin, Hartwell st., Roxbury.

Gate of Heaven High School: Frederick Long, South Boston.

Mission High School for Girls: Joan Morris, Shepherd st., Boston.

The evening contest, which like the afternoon contest was attended by throngs of relatives, friends and fellow-students of the contestants, was enlivened by music by St. Joseph's CYO Band, of Medford, conducted by Victor P. Vardaro and under direction of the Rev. James P. Ryan.

Judges at the evening contest were Mrs. John J. Mahoney, wife of Prof. John J. Mahoney, of Boston University, and executive secretary of Gov. Tobin's special committee for better racial and religious understanding; Dr. Dennis C. Haley, assistant superintendent of Boston public schools; Laurence Curtis, prominent attorney, former state Senator and World War I veteran; Atty. John Lally, of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and Com. Paul Cruden, USN.

Mrs. Mahoney replaced Dean Mary Murray, of the Massachusetts School of Art, who had served as judge during the afternoon session. Hon. Leo P. Doherty, chairman of the local finals, presided at both sessions, introducing each speaker by the number drawn for his speaking position on the program. Neither the names of the students nor the schools they represented were known to the judges during their long deliberations.

Paying warm tribute to the high quality of the orations, the poise and eloquence of the speakers, Judge Donahue remarked that it would require a "photo finish" to decide the winners. He also paid tribute to the subject of the contest and its purpose, declaring it a great patriotic and educational measure for the inspiration of youth in citizenship and service to the nation.

Timers at the contest were Thomas McManey, Newton police inspector, and Frank Morrissey, of the Department of Corrections. Miss Jean Evans, of Brighton, well-known singer and volunteer USO entertainer at camps and hospitals during the war, and an employee of the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, sang the National Anthem at both sessions. Music during the high school contest was furnished by the 65-piece Boston Public High School Symphony Orchestra, under direction of Joseph A. Troncone, assistant supervisor of music in Boston public schools.

In the historic surroundings of Faneuil Hall, the "Cradle of Liberty," the contests took on special color and significance. Standing on the platform against a background of the flags of nation, state and city, and beneath the famed portrait of the early leaders of America who made this country great, the young orators, with youthful enthusiasm but with mature grasp of the meaning of their subject, spoke of Andrew Jackson as the leader in war and peace, who fought for the principles of democracy as stalwartly as he fought for military victory.

The contestants represented nine colleges, 18 public high and eight parochial high schools. All of them, whether or not adjudged winners, agreed that the study of Andrew Jackson's life had, in itself, richly rewarded them for the time and effort devoted to the contest.

men in "foreign" uniforms, beaten, then driven to Chicago.

Later he admitted this was a hoax but said he had been receiving threatening letters for pro-English broadcasts at a local radio station.

State Police brought him into court this morning after questioning him and half a dozen other persons who had been present at an early morning cocktail party in the Ipswich st. apartment of a former high-ranking Army officer shortly before the series of three fires broke out yesterday.

Baetz told the State Police, according to their stenographic account:

"I spent the week-end with Caroline, who is employed by magazines and put her aboard the midnight train for New York at the Back Bay station.

"Then I telephoned Barbara, who is serving in the U. S. Army on dramatization work and as a script writer. She's about 24. I've been collaborating with her for about two years on plays.

"She asked me to come over to her house and said she was with some men from Harvard and her friend, Miss . . . I took a cab and arrived there about 12:30. The Harvard men were an Army colonel and a lieutenant colonel, who are attending Harvard Business School. They were acquainted with the Red Cross girl who is working out of Lovell General Hospital, she's about 23 or 24.

COMIC BY TOM SWAN

"We sat around for a while. When I arrived they were well into a fifth of rye. They drank about half of another fifth. I had one drink and half of another. I left about 2 a. m., I think. (Barbara told police he left about 3:30.)

"The Army men left before I did. I stayed to help cook some eggs and coffee. After I left I walked from Ipswich st. to Massachusetts ave. and couldn't find a cab, so I walked the rest of the way home (114 Newbury).

"I couldn't sleep, and tossed around. About 6 a. m. I heard fire engines and got up and dressed and walked up to Boylston and Clarendon sts. I asked a man where the fire was, and he told me the Irvington Chambers. I walked over there and stood watching for about 15 minutes. There was a man in shirtsleeves and I asked him if he had been inside the building when the fire started, and he said he had. That's all the conversation we had.

"I went back home and slept until the telephone woke me up at 9 a. m. It was Caroline, who told me she heard 70 people had been killed in the fire. I told her that probably was an exaggeration. (The girl told police later he had not mentioned to her he was at the fire scene.)

"I suppose she called me because she knew I had been in trouble before and thought that I might be picked up by the police. I went back to bed and slept until 11:30. I got up and took a cab, stopped and bought a paper. The driver talked about the fire. I went to Miss . . . 's house and we mentioned the fire. I went home and was there until I was picked up. I didn't set the fire."

Police said he was unemployed and explained his funds by saying he sold his piano recently for $250 and some paintings as well. He had $7.75 when picked up. He said he was in service for a short time and was medically discharged because of back injury. He joined Merchant Marine as ensign but quit because of trouble with union on West Coast. He said he can't remember things that happen when he's drinking and estimates it takes five or six drinks before his memory lapses.

The dapper suspect was arrested in his apartment. Officers who took him into custody said they intercepted a telephone call there from a girl in New York.

The detective who answered the phone said the caller identified herself as a member of the staff of one of the nation's leading magazines and he quoted her as saying:

"I just heard about the fire and I thought I'd call and talk with him."

Police got her name and said she would be questioned later. They also found in the suspect's apartment a letter addressed to the same girl in which he had written:

"There have been many frightful accidents happening of late which we don't seem to be able to control or prevent."

Residents of the Newbury st. apartment house told investigators that the suspect did not arrive home shortly after 2 a. m., as he claimed. One witness said he saw the man coming home after 6 a. m., and said he was intoxicated.

Several of the suits found in closets at the suspect's apartments were taken by detectives for chemical analysis to determine if there are any fine stains or burns on them.

Police also found in Baetz' room a note to him from Barbara Bates, 21, Hereford st., Back Bay, who explained she had just returned from Florida and, being acquainted with him, wrote him of her arrival here.

When she learned why police were interested in him she said:

"This does not make sense. It can't be. It must be a mistake. He had very good connections. I became acquainted with him last fall. He knew only the best people. He was a Shakespearean actor. He even could recite Hamlet."

Meanwhile, funeral services were announced for Patrolman Robert Mahoney, who died of burns and injuries suffered in the Belvidere st. fire. He will be buried Saturday after a solemn high mass at 9 a. m. in St. Mary's Church, Charlestown.

Funeral arrangements for the other victims are incomplete. They were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Wessell and their three children, Susan, 6; Peter, 5; and Linda, 3; and Frank LaPete and his sister, Verna LaPete.

The condition of Susan Mahoney, 22, burned in the same fire, was reported extremely poor today at City Hospital where her name is on the danger list. Relatives revealed that Miss Mahoney was to have been married Saturday to Frank LaPete.

it twice and Director Hale won it once. I haven't any kick coming. I won it twice.

"I won in the shirt lottery, too. This shirt I'm wearing was won in the office lottery."

Gondog testified the lottery started with blankets, then War Bonds and that shirts, until they became scarce, also were used as prizes.

Martin A. Morrissey, senior chemist in the department, testified he didn't know anything about the "shirt club," but told how $3900-a-year engineers were ordered to chop ice and fill water coolers when the cooling system was out of order for a year. He said it was repaired a month ago.

Lyne also introduced a series of letters between MacDonald and Civil Service Director Thomas J. Greenham in an effort to show failure to follow Civil Service regulations.

The letter indicated MacDonald sought permanent appointments for three acting district engineers who were numbered 6, 12 and 16 on the Civil Service lists.

The removal hearing opened Tuesday but was adjourned until today because of a scheduled meeting of the executive council yesterday. The principal prosecution evidence was that contractors were given access to plans and specifications of department projects.

The defense countered that these plans already had been published in a trade magazine and that, for 20 years, contractors had such specifications made available to them.

MacDonald's counsel announced that if the executive council upholds the Governor's removal charges they will carry an appeal to the Supreme Judicial Court.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many inferiors relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about a pint a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with stinging and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a mild salt diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 16 million of kidney tubules flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Here's One for Confucius: When's a Chinese an Indian?

OAKLAND, Cal., April 11 (AP)

—An injunction suit to prevent her "Caucasian" neighbors from ousting her and her Chinese-American husband from their $20,000 home has been brought by blonde Mrs. Anne Fong against 15 anonymous "Does."

Mrs. Fong charged the contemplated action to oust them is violative of the U. S. Constitution, the California Constitution, the spirit of the Atlantic Charter, the Emancipation Proclamation and the treaty with the Indians.

In an eight-page suit, filed in superior court, Mrs. Fong, an American, declared the defendants have circulated letters claiming Fong, who is an Oakland restaurant owner and World War II Navy veteran, is not a "Caucasian."

The complaint was accompanied by a purported copy of a letter sent out by the Oak Knoll Improvement Club, Inc., soliciting funds to "take necessary action . . . against the occupancy of property by a non-Caucasian at 9323 Granada ave." which is the Fongs' luxurious home.

The complain stated Fong, by virtue of a 92-year-old California Supreme Court decision, was an American Indian and that efforts to oust him "will violate the 1793 Iroquois nations treaty and may start another war with the Indians."

The Supreme Court held in 1854, the suit said, "that a Chinese is an American Indian, that this decision is in full force and effect, and that Horace Fong, therefore, being an American-Indian, is much more entitled to live on the land than defendants."

It added that Fong, owner of a fashionable restaurant, "the Confucius," never had shown discrimination in the serving of food at his place of business, and that "Caucasians" or anyone else were accorded democratic treatment.

Atty. Van H. Pinney said the Fongs had hired a private detective to ferret out the names of Oak Knoll residents to substitute for the anonymous "Does."

Trial of Mihailovic To Be Open to Public

Tidal-Force Quake Recorded

By Associated Press

A very strong earthquake, said to be about as severe as the one which caused the recent tidal wave, was recorded last night by seismologists in New York, Philadelphia, Weston, Mass., and St. Louis.

Most of the seismologists agreed the disturbance was about 500 miles distant, probably in Romania, although one estimated it probably occurred in the Aleutian chain.

Report of an earthquake was received from Romania.

Jewish Refugees End Hunger Strike

LA SPEZIA, Italy, April 11 (INS)—Eleven hundred Jewish refugees ended a 65-hour hunger strike today on the promise of Harold Laski, chairman of the British Labor party, to aid in obtaining permission for them to sail for Palestine.

The refugees, mostly survivors of Hitlerite concentration camps, were held in La Spezia harbor aboard the steamer Fede when refused permission by British authorities to proceed.

They swore to starve themselves to death "rather than renounce our determination to reach the land of Israel."

Electric Eye gives Positive Proof.. Soapine Gets Clothes Really Clean!

Here is Startling Evidence
Guaranteed by Science

The Electric-Eye makes no mistakes. This amazing electronic instrument scientifically spots the dirt that dulls the brightness of the family wash. In 52 separate tests, one for every wash-day of the year, it proved Soapine always washes really clean.

of the Electric-Eye proves positively.

Soapine washes really clean because its carefully selected ingredients, (including a generous amount of pure coconut oil) are "balance-blended"—measured exactly to give you positive cleansing action!

For all the family wash

Agents Mistake 3 Officers For Moonshiners, Kill One

JEFFERSON CITY, Tenn., April 11 (AP)—A Jefferson County officer was shot to death and two others wounded today in a case of mistaken identity when they arrived at a still simultaneously with revenue agents.

James L. Thomas of Dandridge, constable and hardware store operator, was shot to death. Wounded were sheriff Arthur Holbert, shot through the stomach, and deputy sheriff Ernest Gass, shot through the foot. Sheriff Holbert was in critical condition.

Gass said he and other officers were shot by agents of the Knoxville office of the U. S. alcohol tax unit in what he termed a "case of mistaken identity."

"We had found a still Sunday in the Grapevine Hollow section and went up there this morning in hopes of catching moonshiners ready to make a run," Gass said.

"The revenue officers beat us there. Both groups thought the others were moonshiners. They told us to 'get 'em up.' We didn't recognize them and didn't put up our hands. Then they opened fire on us."

Suit Shortage Bars Vets' Jobs

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Many veterans have to turn down jobs because they can't buy proper clothing, says Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, chief of the Veterans' Retraining and Re-employment Administration, adding "something has got to be done right away to increase production."

Graves said that in many cases veterans who could qualify as salesman or for other jobs which "require a good appearance" have had to pass up opportunities.

Graves, laying his case before officials of six government agencies trying to boost the clothing output, said too much cloth needed for men's suits was being diverted to women's apparel. He added that unless something is done, the government's goal of 14,000,000 suits this year in the under $35 price range never could be achieved.

WE MUST SAVE OURSELVES

RIVAL STATES are spending millions to lure away the essential industries of Massachusetts and to build their future at our expense.

For that good reason, the rejection of Joseph P. Kennedy's recommendations for a State Department of Commerce would be a serious and increasingly costly mistake.

It would be tantamount to an acknowledgment that Massachusetts lacks the ability and gumption to resist the attacks of its competitors in the South and Middle West.

It would almost say:

"We are the easy marks and prize saps of the nation."

We do not for a moment believe that the present Legislature, which has shown a consistent desire to promote the general welfare, would ever be guilty of such a tragic blunder.

A million-dollar budget for the Department of Commerce may sound big at first hearing, but it actually represents an expenditure of only one dollar per year—less than two cents a week—per Massachusetts family.

Two cents a week to protect one's job and earning power is hardly an extravagant arrangement.

Moreover, as Mr. Kennedy has said, the budget is "completely justified by the magnitude of the problems we face; by the needs of the organization required to handle these problems; by the necessity of adequate advertising and publicity funds; by the competitive expenditures of other States, and by the facts and figures of our Commonwealth's very serious decline industrially following World War I."

Unless we want another depression, with bread lines and all the other evils of widespread joblessness, we should be sufficiently prosperity-minded to declare a permanent moratorium on dissection of the type which seeks to sabotage Mr. Kennedy's proposals.

As a matter of plain fact, the Department of Commerce should have been established three months ago, when it might have saved numerous industrial activities now irretrievably lost.

RUINOUS STRIKE

OWNERS OF the thirty-five Boston fishing trawlers, tied up by labor differences since December 27, have challenged the Fishermen's Union to hold a secret vote among the striking men to determine whether they want to return to work.

If such an expression of views will end the controversy which has stalemated the important fishing industry all winter, it most certainly should be encouraged by all responsible public officials.

Any strike which ignores the worldwide food crisis and probable starvation of hundreds of thousands of persons, including little children, is absolutely intolerable.

Perhaps the fishermen are asking too much. Perhaps the trawler owners are offering too little.

But the people who are being deprived of urgently needed food will never know what the situation is until the dispute is submitted to arbitration.

We have the machinery for this kind of democratic settlement. Let's use it.

NEEDLESS DEATHS

DEATHS OF small children in house fires are becoming alarmingly repetitious. Yesterday two little girls and their small brother died with their parents in the flames that swept a Back Bay apartment house.

Hardly a day and never a week passes without a similarly sorrowful happening somewhere in the nation.

We grieve, but that is not enough. Better and infinitely more worthy of this self-respecting nation would be a country-wide determination to give all the people the benefits and protection of completely up-to-date thoroughly fireproof housing.

We could do it in five years if the supposedly representative Americans worried as much about the problems of America as they habitually worry about the problems of Europe and Asia and were willing to spend as much money for their solution.

The loan which England is now seeking in Washington would provide safe shelter for seven hundred and fifty thousand American families.

NAMING THE BABY: A young mother of Los Angeles says: "When I told my mother I had named my baby Faith Victoria she shook her head in disapproval and heaved a sigh. What's wrong with this name?"

It seems a nice name to me. Perhaps this subscriber's mother expected that the baby would be named after her. I don't believe in naming babies after relatives. Every effort should be made to give the child, especially if a girl, an attractive, unusual name like Joan Fontaine's, which she won't want to change when she grows up. At present only one in five girls likes the name her parents gave her.

However, in my experience the finest sportsmen were the players for Fordham and Holy Cross.

GET IT RIGHT: "You are right in saying the Caesarian section is not named after Julius Caesar," writes a registered nurse. "The name is derived from the Latin verb caesare, which means 'to cut into.' This dispels the theory that Julius Caesar had anything to do with it. Prior to a short time ago, it was only a post-mortem procedure."

SAYS SHE: "A woman who leaves a lipstick smear on a glass, cigarette butt or a man's face is a fundamentally stupid, lazy and sloppy person," writes a San Franciscan. "Careful and intelligent application will prevent this. A man can be certain any woman who leaves lipstick smears is or will be a sloppy, shiftless housekeeper and a careless, neglectful, inefficient mother."

OVER THERE: George Cracknell of England has been a jockey for 25 years. March 19, 1946, was an eventful day for George. On that date, at the Windsor track, he rode a horse that came in third. That was the first time in Cracknell's 25-year career as a jockey that he rode a horse that finished in the money. Shows what a man can do if he keeps on trying.

WONDERING: "Is my capacity for holding liquor becoming greater or is the stuff being soaked in most bars and night clubs being watered?" asks a New Yorker. "I am only an occasional drinker and before the war I usually felt quite jolly after four highballs. Now I can consume as many as 12 and not feel them. Not only that, my wife who formerly began to giggle after the second highball now remains her poised after the seventh or eighth drink."

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE UNITED STATES is surrounded on two sides by great oceans, a friendly power, Canada, and a weak power, Mexico. Close at hand are islands in the Caribbean which, from the standpoint of power, mean nothing.

Soviet Russia is a land mass, surrounded on all sides by weak and antagonistic nations—many of them, sometimes combining against Russia; sometimes combining with other great powers against Russia; sometimes ruthlessly conquered by Russia.

This geographical distinction has long influenced the international outlook of the two countries. The United States has not feared war or its consequences.

In fact, the most severe war in its history prior to 1939, the Civil War, was an internal revolution over the rights of the States under the American Constitution.

Her two wars with Great Britain, one establishing the nation and the other fortifying its independence, left no scar of bitterness or antagonism for Great Britain, which was too far away.

The Mexican War was closest in design to a European war of conquest; but the Spanish-American War involved nothing of serious issue in the national history of the country.

The United States had suffered, up to this war, nothing worse than unpaid debts and broken promises.

NEITHER CZARIST RUSSIA nor Soviet Russia has ever been really free from concern over the Russian boundaries. To assure those boundaries, Russia put out bulwarks both by conquering more territory and by establishing puppet or satellite states to take up the force of any drive against her.

Czarist Russia, from Alexander I to Nicholas II, was conscious that safety lay in some technique for universal peace, and even Soviet Russia, whenever Litvinov's counsels were heeded, accepted the idea of collective security.

But Soviet Russia bogged down under fears of her own making, namely, that both capitalist and Socialist countries would have to aim to destroy a Communist country, fearful lest Communism ultimately conquer the world.

It does not matter at all that what in Russia now goes by the name of Communism is actually a form of police-Socialism.

The Russians continue to suffer from the neurosis of "capitalist encirclement."

THE UNITED STATES never objected, until recently, to existing in a world of multityped political and economic systems.

It is true that the Monroe Doctrine closed the American continents to further colonization from Europe or the further establishment thereon of European forms of governments, but we were on friendly terms with political and economic despots in China, Russia, Turkey and other lands.

As for economic systems, they have always varied, depending upon the levels of culture of the people, from primitive forms in the South Seas to the highly developed capitalism of England prior to its current confusions. And we did business with all of them.

SOVIET RUSSIA, paraphrasing Abraham Lincoln, insists that the world cannot be half-Communist and half-capitalist, which, from the American standpoint, is utter nonsense.

The United States actually is in a position to do business with anybody that pays his bills—and actually does business with many who do not and cannot pay their bills.

But as long as the Russians believe that if capitalism, in any form, survives anywhere, Communism in Russia is doomed, they must, by every means, seek to destroy in self-defense those nations which are not Communist.

The Russians imagine that the world is preoccupied with her interior economy; actually, to Americans, the peregrinations of the OPA are more important.

THE RESULT of the two forces described, one territorial fears and two ideological fears, is that such a concept as the United Nations fails to interest Soviet Russia, no matter what Stalin may say at a given moment.

The United Nations exists to safeguard all nations, great or small, but Soviet Russia never believed that UN should have jurisdiction over the Big Three.

That was the Russian attitude at San Francisco when the veto was insisted upon; that has been the Russian attitude at Moscow, Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam.

It is the basis for the current attitude over Iran.

The United States, fearing no country, supports the United Nations wholeheartedly; Soviet Russia, fearing every nation, insists upon a strictly isolationist management of her own arrangements.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, April 11—When those Swedish movie stars decide to come to Hollywood they certainly bring their husbands along. Warner is putting down the red carpet to welcome "Viveca Lindfors, the current darling of Swedish movies, Saturday. But when she arrives her lawyer husband will be at her side. It's all very much like Ingrid Bergman's arrival in Hollywood with her attractive husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Ingrid Bergman

I hear that the similarity between Lindfors and Bergman doesn't end there and that they are very much the same type in looks and temperament. One thing is sure—Viveca will not be allowed to cool her heels waiting for her first Hollywood picture. Jack Warner has bought "Ships in the River," a powerful drama about iron ore boats by Gosta Larsson, for her first Hollywood movie, and it will be started immediately. Larsson, by the way, is a Swedish writer—which comes in handy.

ONE THING Edward G. Robinson insisted on when teamed up to make movies with Sol Lesser was a chance to get away from gangster and racketeer parts. Sol must have taken him at his word for Eddie's first will be "The Red Barn" in which he co-stars with Don McCallister. There's nary a gangster or a racketeer in the entire "Barn." Instead, Eddie plays a farmer—but not the one with the daughter. Delmar Daves directs and the company is just about to take off on a five weeks' farm location.

HAL WALLIS didn't go to England just to sign players and set up a unit for making pictures. He is buying story properties right and left and one of the most important is "For Her to See," by Joseph Shearing, the nom de plume of the well-known British writer, Margaret Lonsdale. This romantic mystery set Hal back around $100,000, and while it has a London background, he hasn't yet made up his mind whether he wants to produce it in England or in Hollywood. Don't tell me London looks more like itself on a Hollywood sound stage! Ain't the movies wonderful?

WHEN MARGARET SULLAVAN takes "Voice of the Turtle" to London, Richard Carlson will have the role Elliott Nugent created on the stage. There's a double-header in store for Carlson, who recently got out of the Army while in London; he will also play in the James Hilton story, "So Well Remembered," for Adrian Scott. Scott leaves soon for England with Anne Shirley to make the movie and as far as I know Anne and Richard are the first actors signed for the film.

I AM DEEP in Gene Fowler's new book, "A Son in Tombs." I sort of wish Gene hadn't sent me that nice autographed copy, because I have been reading it when I should be sleeping, but it is awfully interesting. The story is about Gene's boyhood in Denver and his grandmother who raised him—what a character! He tells about Columist Ed Sullivan's father, a fine old character, and about Paul Whiteman and Paul's dad. It seems that Ed, Paul, and Gene were all brought up in Denver together. I think there's a movie in it myself. I am very pleased with the autographed copy, which was one of the first hundred, and it was nice of Gene to send it to me.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Lew Ayres and Mona Maris are the newest romances in town—unless you want to count Yvonne de Carlo and Stirling Hayden, who have been seeing each other; did someone say Van Johnson isn't having an operation? He's in the good Samaritan Hospital for an operation, which will be performed by Dr. Kenneth Smiley this morning; David Selznick has bought the Miriam Hopkins home he has been renting for the past six months; The party given by the Hal Roaches for General Spatz was one of the nicest of the season. About 150 guests gathered to meet the popular hero under the canopy that covered the Roach patio. Clark Gable, back in Hollywood unexpectedly, was there—so was Jimmy Stewart. David Niven was proudly introducing his wife, who is so pretty, to his Hollywood friends, and she said she is still recuperating from that 14-day crossing on a freight boat. Sonia Henie, Bebe Daniels, George Jessel and Johnny McEclair were among the diners and dancers at the party.

THE RED SKELTONS came to the premiere of "The Ziegfeld Follies" with Red's wife, Edna, and her present husband, Frank Borzage. But what bowled the first-nighters over is that the two ladies arrived to have the same identical hair-do. Now that it's all over with Dolores Moran, Ben Bogues escorted brunette Kirkwood; Steve Hannagan's birthday was 10 days ago but Annie Sheridan waited until he arrived in Hollywood to give him his birthday present—an elaborate silver tea and coffee set; Rand Brooks, just out of the Army after three years, has been signed for the juvenile lead in the Hopalong Cassidy movies. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, April 11—My adviser on naval affairs, Machinist's Mate Michelangelo Rembrandt Kelly, came in the other day to say he had discovered the principle source of opposition to unification of our armed forces.

"It's them admirals!" he exclaimed.

"Those admirals," I corrected.

"It's those, too," said Mr. Kelly. "Both types, and those against it. You know why? They don't want to get off that quarterdeck!"

"What quarterdeck?" I demanded. "Don't try to tell me all our admirals are huddled together on a quarterdeck."

"I am speaking figurative," snapped Mr. Kelly. "What I mean is the admirals are afraid this unification thing will put the Navy in the background and then along with it. They do not like that idea because they love to strut the quarterdeck."

"You keep bringing up that quarterdeck!" I remonstrated. "What have you got against it? If they have a battleship they've got to have a quarterdeck, don't they, or do you think the admiral ought to sit on top of a piano like Carl Brisson?"

"The point I am trying to make is that nobody seems to know whether we will need a battleship any more with this atom bomb and things. Maybe the battleship is obsolete," don't you?

"What's the difference?" snapped Mr. Kelly. "You are just being technical. With this atom bomb they may decide the battleship is no good because it can be blown to gas at one throw and the admirals will not have any quarterdeck to pace and look important."

I TOLD Machinist's Mate Kelly I still did not see what he was driving at. He looked at me pityingly and continued:

"The thing is that the admirals, and commodores too, are loaded down with tradition. The Navy has been a great thing down the ages and they do not wish to see any of its glory rubbed off, which is natural. They are afraid that with unification the military leaders might decide we would be better off with no warships whatsoever and they cannot very well strut back and forth on the wing of an airplane looking heroic."

"There is another big angle," added Mr. Kelly. "Deep down in his heart every admiral wishes to get off some crack which will go thundering down into history. They can picture themselves standing on the quarterdeck during a raging battle shouting something heroic like John Paul Jones or Thomas E. Dewey."

"What is heroic about shouting 'John Paul Jones or Thomas E. Dewey'?" I demanded.

"And a w-y-a-y," it was Thomas E. Dewey. Tom wasn't around for the Battle of Manila Bay, although many feel he has been around too long at that."

"I wish I was as smart as you," retorted Mr. Kelly, "and I would go down myself. Anyway, every admiral dreams of saying something for posterity like: 'You may fire when ready, Gridley!'"

"What if he doesn't know anybody named Gridley?"

"I mean any of those big heroic remarks, like when Adm. Farragut sailed into Mobile Bay in 1864 and said: 'Damn the torpedoes!'"

"He said 'damn,'"

"Then he should of been ashamed of himself. You didn't hear John Paul Jones saying anything like that. No, sir, when his Bonhomme Richard sank the British Serapis in 1779 he said: 'We have just begun to fight!'"

"This is very interesting," I said. "What other things do admirals say?—and I hope you don't know."

"Well Perry said: 'We have met the enemy and they are ours' and Lawrence said: 'Don't give up the ship' and Nelson—"

"That will be enough. Leave us not drag the British into it." "All right," he agreed, "we will leave the British out of it. They are not in this anyway, because I have enough to do advising you on our own naval affairs without taking on any others."

"But," concluded Machinist's Mate Michelangelo Rembrandt Kelly, "that is the real reason why the admirals are against this unification thing. They all want to act like Charles Laughton when he's playing the part of an admiral on the bridge of a ship and they do not want to be unified out."

A THING called the Win the Peace Conference, which many consider a bit pinko, is being held in the National Press Club. The other day a delegate asked one of our members:

"Which is the most liberal paper in Washington?"

"I've worked for them all," replied the reporter, "and none were that way with me."

ERRATA AND APOLOGIES—and right at the top (where it belongs): If we are proven to be wrong in our prediction that Paul A. Dever would NOT be the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, be lenient enough to recall, please, that calling a turn on the Democratic party in Massachusetts is as unsafe as being a Republican commissioner of public works. . . . We learn now—a mere two days after our forecast of Dever's disinclination to take second place on the ticket which he once headed—that much persuasive talk has been administered him by Gov. Tobin and Sen. Walsh.

THE INEVITABLE deal that goes with any story of political bargainings is that Gov. Tobin would appoint the former attorney general to the U. S. Senate in case anything untoward happens to the robust but venerable Sen. Walsh.

THIS SOUNDS unlikely on two counts. . . . First, we are sure that Tobin's ambition is the Senate, and Dever would be an immovable road-block once he took over. . . . Second: Who would have the temerity to discuss blandly with the state's senior Senator the fact that he might not live out his term? . . . It would be a subject which good taste ordinarily would exclude from even a political parley. . . . Nevertheless, the information, directly from the "feed box," has it that Tobin and Dever will be the Democratic standard-bearers in the coming fight. . . . And it is possible that Sen. Walsh's future might well have been discussed with Tobin and Dever as the only two present.

WE ADMIT an error in confusing the poetic-sounding name of Adriel Bird with that of another famous Massachusetts merchant who dealt in food products and whose last name has "bird" for a base. . . . We said in the other column that Mr. Bird, coffee magnate, had made another fortune in the stock market. . . . This evoked the interest of the Dept. of Int. Revenue, and the curiosity of several astonished bankers who have known Mr. Bird for many years as a citizen who refrains from the dubious thrill of making or losing a fortune in the stock market.

OUR MAN—the one we meant to congratulate—has made a new fortune by bringing out a product that clicked at once. . . . To be safe, however, we shall not identify him more closely than we have already. . . . We shall not again confuse the names, either. . . . It should be said that this recantation was not asked or demanded by Mr. Bird. . . . We happened to learn through mutual friends that he had been upset, and embarrassed. . . . And are sorry.

CONSIDERABLE MALARKY, we now learn, was included in Gansett's statement about "preference to New England horses" at the Pawtucket oval. The handicaps, as usual, are getting stiffs, and N. E. owners are jockeying (as usual) for the privilege of housing their steeds on the track. . . . Some misinformation, too, is being passed along to Judge James E. Dooley, president of the track. . . . For instance, I. K. Mowrer did not race horses at Gansett heretofore, according to the good judge's belief. . . . Someone does tell him wrong. . . . When Gansett needed horses to fill races, the Mowrer stock was shipped at once.

IKE IS a popular Massachusetts horse-owner and trainer who also runs a breeding farm one of the few in New England, at Leominster. . . . It seems a safe wager that Judge Dooley will find space for the Mowrer horses as soon as possible.

If a r le e a plainclothesman saved her from the front pages of the "Perry" in o p k i n s j o y c e a nerves are in a terrible state. Sammy Cahn and Julie Styne are set to write the score for the Phil Silvers musical. . . . Dead End Kid Billy Halop is recuperating after a sinus operation. . . . Mike Jacobs is selling tickets for the Big Fight in blocks of 50 at $5000 per batch, just casual-like. . . . THE REVIVAL of "My Sister Eileen," currently being shown at the nabes, gets a big laugh where it never got it before: the scene where the girls look at "apartment for rent" ads—11 whole pages of them!

IRASCIBLE. Welsh-accented Captain Fluellen in "Henry V" is played by Esmond Knight. This Shakespeare film treat, which goes into its third week on the Esquire screen on Sunday, is occasion for dancing in the streets.

The Seventh Veil' Stays

"The Seventh Veil," first of the big new crop of British pictures released through Universal and a picture with brains in it, continues for a second week on Keith Memorial screen. It is the story of a girl with a desperate fixation which is gradually revealed to and cured by a psychoanalyst.

The girl, beautifully played by Ann Todd, becomes a brilliant pianist because of native talent and hard work. But her hands and mind have been hurt, and the memory so frightens her that both are stopped at the moment she is to play a concert with the London Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Todd and co-star James Mason perform as brilliantly as the London Symphony Orchestra, and so you cannot afford to re-

'Masked Ball' Is Tonight's Opera Choice

"The Masked Ball," with Bruno Walter conducting, will be tonight's presentation by the Metropolitan Opera Assn., at the Opera House. The curtain will rise at 8 o'clock.

Jon Peerce will sing the Riccardo (Gustave III of Sweden) role. Kerstin Thorborg will be heard as Ulrica, Leonard Warren as Renato, Zinka Milanov as Amelia and Pierette Alarie as Oscar.

The Giuseppe Verdi opera, first produced at Rome on Feb. 17, 1895, opens with an audience in the reception hall of the governor's house, given by Richard, Earl of Warwick.

A page has handed him a list of the guests invited to a masked ball. Richard sees the name of Amelia, wife of his secretary, Reinhart, on the list. He is in love with Amelia, but Reinhart is unaware of it and is endeavoring to protect Richard from conspirators.

A judge brings for signature a sentence of banishment against an old negress, Ulrica, who is accused as a sorceress. Richard decides to test Ulrica's powers of divination, and visits her hut in the disguise of a fisherman. Amelia is already there consulting the Negress, and Richard, unseen, overhears Amelia asking for a magic herb to cure her of her love for Richard.

She is directed to the place where she must pluck the herb at midnight. Richard meets her there. Reinhart, also, on hand to protect his master from the conspirators who are laying in wait, discovers his wife and resolves to kill her. Then he changes his mind, directs his evil intentions toward Richard.

At the masked ball Reinhart learns what disguise Richard is

Smart Set 34th Ice Chips Carnival

By BETTY ALDEN

SPRING HAS COME to the Hub, or so the calendar tells us, and with it announcement today that the Skating Club of Boston will wind up the season's activities with its 34th annual carnival, Ice Chips, April 26-28 on the club's rink, Soldiers Field rd., Brighton. There will be four performances including a matinee on Sunday.

The Boston show, grand granddaddy of all American ice shows, will have a cast of nearly 200 club members with solos, pairs and specialty numbers by club champions and title holders of the United States. The cast has been in rehearsal several weeks under the coaching of post deb Betsy Nichols of Brookline, Harrington New England senior and national novice champion. Mrs. Frank D. Harrington heads the executive committee which includes Charles M. Rotch, club president, George R. Blodgett and Harold Golding.

One of the most popular numbers will be the military drill performed by 24 attractive young skaters including Peggy Harrington, Katharine Blodgett, Helen Castin, Justine Cavanaugh, Dianne Catlin, Mary Comerford, Dianne Catlin, Lilla May Conlon, Jane Grace, Ruth, Janet, and Joan Crowley, Elaine McManus, Joan Nickerson, Marie Noonan, Mary Perry, Lea Pratt, Ann Watson, Anne Wagborne and several others.

ROUND TOWN-FASHIONS and Martinis are the style at the new Tuesday cocktail fashion shows in the recently opened Hotel Somerset. Enjoying the pleasant late afternoon diversion this week were Mrs. Philip Wrenn of Dedham and her sister-in-law Mrs. Mary W. Morris whose daughter Polly Garland was one of the attractive models. With them were David Cutler and Peter Garland who applauded heartily as Polly paraded one glamorous costume after another. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Warren Walker, Jr., of Beverly, Mrs. F. Cobb Chilton and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Clothier were others who dropped in for the show.

Glimpsed Mrs. James J. Phelan on the look-out for some early American chests of drawers and Governor Winthrop desks for her married daughters' apartments, at the Antiques Show which continues through this evening at the Copley Plaza. Visitors to the show also included Mrs. Max Talbot and Mrs. David M. Little of Brookline, Mrs. Lloyd Davis, Hopedale, Mrs. Arthur Greenwood, Marlborough and Mrs. C. A. Warren, Commonwealth ave.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Garden Dept.,
Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—Are the readymade baits for cutworms satisfactory? It seems to be hard to buy the ingredients for the homemade formula.

A—The commercial preparations should prove effective if the worms will eat them. Try adding a little grated orange peel or chopped clover to attract them.

Q—Is manure harmful to evergreens?

A—Fresh manure does not seem to be too good for evergreens. Most landscape gardeners prefer to use a complete garden fertilizer evenly distributed around the tree or shrub.

Q—Should a privet hedge be cut back the first year after it is planted?

A—In most cases it is wise to trim this type of hedge back to thicken it up.

Q—Is it too late to trim an apple tree?

A—No. They can be trimmed now, but not too severely. Late pruning causes more sucker growth than winter pruning.

Q—How can I separate dahlia roots without breaking the buds off?

A—In separating dahlia roots, split off a portion of the old stem which will protect the new bud.

Q—I want to grow some lima beans, but do not know whether to grow the bush or pole variety. Which is best?

A—With our short growing season, most gardeners prefer the bush varieties. Would suggest trying one of the varieties of baby limas and the Fordhook bush lima.

Q—Can onions be grown from seed?

A—Onions can be grown from seed, but home gardeners usually have better luck by using either sets or plants. Set onions can resist the attacks of the onion thrip and mature earlier. Also less labor in weeding.

Dress You
For Spring

BUSTLE with a basque and a white pique collar on top. Spring's youthful yearning is for a dressmaker-tailored gray wool suit as smooth and sleek as this one by William Bass... a snug-fitting affair... fully closed with small silver buttons... and charmingly detailed with matching school-girlish collar and cuffs. Full skirt ahead gives the bustle suggestion counter interest.

YOU DON'T have to be a student of geometry to appreciate the triangular drapery which softens the slim skirt of this intriguing William Bass black crepe date-bait. The embroidered mousseline... an important note this season... frilled like a paper doily and "lapel-ing" the wide neckline for an exposed accent on femininity... is fresh, young fashion beauty after dark sartorial stardust.

By Ruth Mugglebee
Beauty and Fashion Editor

There's nothing abstract about fashion art this spring... beautiful spring, and where is it... so we can sally forth in seasonal raiment?

You may or may not be "glad you're you" this spring... depending on nature's charming indulgence or lack of it and your contingent ability to substantiate creditably the new silhouette... but one thing is certain. This fashion frankness is a blessing in disguise.

And that's what we admire and cheer about in clothes by William Bass... figure-frank fashions that have fundamental sophistication disguised... but not so thinly this season... by fragile, Dresden-like lingerie touches. Pretty, pretty!

Those pictured, we think, are designer darlings... the kind the dynamic and vivacious American woman... from white-collar girl to mink-clad smarty... would choose for a wardrobe dictated by good taste, distinctive individualism and feminine fancy.

William Bass says lingerie touches are very important this spring for the look that enchants. They express true feminine softness... which, in itself, is the dominant theme of the new-season style picture.

Body-sculptured bodices on slim dresses... with bared or covered-up necklines... are hardly naive... but they are honest in intent... fashion and figure-honesty which this spring women may make the most of to their heart's content. This is one year when figure confidence is as important as fashion trends.

(Tomorrow's Designer: Charles Armour)

FEMININITY is the outstanding characteristic of fashions for spring, 1946.

The tiny waistline is the focal point on which the rest of the silhouette is based. This tiny waistline look is achieved by means of broad but subtly rounded shoulders; deep armholes; full sleeves gathered into the wrist or pushed up nearly to the elbow; gracefully swirling skirts about an inch longer than before; tunics or peplums that swish sharply out and minimize the waistline above them.

Lingerie touches are important. Imported Swiss organdie froths in jabots and at wrists; crisp pique shines on gray and navy; the two-piece look is everywhere, both in suits and dresses that look like suits.

This year, more than ever before, fashions will truly glorify the American figure, and will emphasize the fresh young beauty of the American woman.

William Bass

RHUMBA RUFFLES for hipline flattery in taffeta on navy crepe form the peplum of this William Bass two-piece dress... a peplum which swishes sharply out to minimize the waistline above it. The trim bodice... fastened with taffeta buttons from neck to waist... is diminutively endeared with a white eyelid embroidered collar.

Versatile Beauty Basic

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor
ANY TIMES the very sight of several jars of cosmetics discourages the use of many. Heart-longing as we may be for a flawless complexion . . . the confusion of this and that beauty curative is too overpowering and we end up doing nothing about the precious pelt that is any girl's claim to recognition.

That's why a versatile beauty basic that cleanses, conditions and prepares the skin for make-up is on the preferred list in our beauty book. It is a famous beauty cream standby that is good for three separate jobs.

Tempt-Your Appetites

By MARTHA LEE

Household Editor

THE FIRST HINT of spring in the air announces the arrival of rosy rhubarb. This juicy fruit has that colorful goodness and refreshing flavor to tempt the most lagging of appetites.

Rhubarb Raisin Pie combines the elegant flavor of rhubarb with that of raisins. The sugary goodness of the raisins complements the tartness of the rhubarb to give an unusually delicious dessert.

RHUBARB RAISIN PIE

1 cup sifted enriched flour

1/2 tsp. salt

1-3 cup shortening

1 to 2 tbsp. cold water

Sift together flour and salt. Cut or rub in shortening. Add water gradually. Mix into a dry, crumbly dough. Toss on lightly floured pastry cloth. Roll and fold until smooth. Roll about 1/8-inch thick. Line 9-inch pie pan. Prick with fork. Fill with rhubarb raisin filling. Dot with margarine or butter, if desired. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350 deg. F.) and continue baking for about 45 minutes.

RHUBARB RAISIN FILLING

3 cups rhubarb

1/2 cup raisins

1 tsp. grated lemon rind

1 1/2 cups sugar

6 tbsp. enriched flour

1/2 tsp. salt

Margarine or butter, if desired

Wash rhubarb and cut into 1-inch pieces. Cover raisins with hot water. Let stand about 10 minutes. Drain raisins. Combine raisins, rhubarb and rind. Sift together sugar, flour, and salt. Mix flour mixture and fruit mixture. Fill pastry shell with rhubarb filling. (If rhubarb is very dry, a small amount of water may be added.) Makes 1 pie, 9-inch diameter.

For extra special dinner parties, glamorize rhubarb raisin pie with a cream cheese topping. To make this delicate topping, whip cream cheese to the consistency of whipped cream and place a scoop of cheese on top of each serving of pie. Another tempting way to serve this favorite is with a thin lemon sauce drizzled sparingly over each serving. Served plain or dressed up with extra fillings, this is an A-1 de luxe dessert.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

WHAT'S your popularity rating, folks?

Judging from the letters a lot of you write me, I'd say there are a good many who think far too little of themselves. At any rate, to hear them tell it, they're tormented by doubts of themselves, by self-consciousness, timidity and fears — all the assorted disabilities that go into the making of a full-blown inferiority complex, which is a far from comfortable thing for anyone to be luging around.

Listen to these few extracts from the morning's mail, typical of countless others that come to my desk every day: "Whenever I'm with any group of people, I'm tongue-tied." That's a young man talking. "I'm so lonesome. Everybody seems to have a good time but me. Sometimes I think nobody likes me." She's a teen-ager. "How is it that some people always know just what to say and others, like me, always seem to say the wrong thing?" At 31, the woman who writes this letter is thoroughly discouraged with herself, and the kind of life she leads, stays at home more and more because she feels she "always makes a mess of things" when she goes out socially.

"I'd like to have a nice girl to go steady with, but I don't seem able to talk to girls, and I always think they're making fun of me." This man has reached the age of 42, wants to get married and have a home of his own, but has always been too shy to make friends with the other sex. "If I go to a party, I feel like a dummy because I can't kid and wisecrack like the others do. What can I do about this?" This girl is 20, an age when she ought to be having a wonderful time. And so it goes. I could use up a whole newspaper page quoting from the letters of people young and old, male and female, who long for social companionship, but instead feel themselves "different"; who would give a couple of years of their lives to be gay and lively conversationalists, yet the more they want to the more silent and "dumb" they seem to get. In other words, they want — as who doesn't? — to be popular, liked and sought after by other people and feel they never can be.

Of course, each one believes his or her case is hopeless. That's part of the trouble. And that's the first thing they ought to get out of their heads, substituting the cheerful thought that no case of shyness and self-consciousness is hopeless. Something can be done about it. Perhaps not always quite as much as you'd like, but enough to make you less self-conscious, more comfortable in company, more able to enjoy yourself with others.

But I can prove it to you, too. Want to try?

Here's my suggestion: I have drawn up a "Popularity Quiz" which I'll be glad to send anyone who writes and asks for it, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope. After you've answered the questions — and answer them honestly; no wishful thinking! — send the sheet back to me. I'll go over your answers and tell you where your social difficulties seem to be and how you can best overcome them. After that, it will be up to you.

The Hearst Newspapers have ever been the champions of FREE ENTERPRISE

NEW YORK AMERICAN, JANUARY 25, 1931

"Whatever is right can be achieved through the irresistible power of awakened and informed public opinion. Our object, therefore, is not to enquire whether a thing can be done, but whether it ought to be done, and if it ought to be done, to so exert the forces of publicity that public opinion will compel it to be done."

W. R. Hearst

In 1926 the Hearst Newspapers warned of a growing tendency by government to impose meddlesome and often oppressive restrictions upon its citizens.

In 1931 the Hearst Newspapers exposed the vicious monopolistic practices of public utility holding companies, as part of their never-ending campaign against monopolies private and public.

In 1933 the Hearst Newspapers urged that N.R.A. should work for the business man by freeing him from obsolete restrictions and impositions.

In 1938 the Hearst Newspapers called the nation's attention to the fact that excessive New Deal taxes were causing the Recession and threatening free enterprise everywhere.

In 1940 the Hearst Newspapers cried out against the avalanche of "paper work" forced upon business by the government, pointing out that one corporation had to file 1,030 tax returns and reports in a year.

In 1942 the Hearst Newspapers attacked the $25,000 salary limit proposed by the Communists and their fellow-travelers in high places as confiscatory and totalitarian.

In 1943 the Hearst Newspapers pointed out that the un-American movement for Grade Labeling of products was fostered by Marxian mediocrity.

In 1945 the Hearst Newspapers staunchly opposed the use of the American taxpayer's dollar to finance and fortify the Socialists in England or the Communists in Russia.

Louisville Prepares for Greatest Derby Classic

By AUSTEN LAKE

A PLEASANT FORM OF LUNACY is brewing again at lazy Louisville, Ky.—the annual mania called the Kentucky Derby, on May 4, when American race royalty gathers for a week-long carnival with no regard for money and the home-breds hold their hals under a golden faucet.

This is an occasion where the OPA indulges greedy landlords and victuallers who charge blackjack prices for the bare essentials of life, and where a thimble and a crust at the Boot and Spur on Fourth st. costs $4 instead of 60 cents, and where rooms little larger than linen closets are $25 per diem, with a minimum three-day lease. For $1.50 one can swallow a hard liquor dose called "mint julep."

The OPA makes no attempt to regulate ceiling prices during the Derby because such matters are determined by previous price standards, and the sky was always the limit during Louisville's yearly dementia. The legal price limit was what the hotel, hooch and munch merchants could get. So the OPA has no legal choice but to bless their efforts to get it again. And all for something that lasts two minutes and a few seconds while the good people stand till their feet bleed for a fleeting glimpse of the rubbery steeds.

Earthly Paradise

THAT IS ONE ASPECT, AND I am first to admit, the cynical one. For Churchill Downs is a paradisaical spot, softened by 70 years of horticultural and architectural art. It is reminiscent of corkscrew curls, hoopskirts, goat-bearded colonels and the pioneer period when early settlers came to people a wilderness—a stemjohn of corn liquor in one hand, a squirrel rifle in 'tuther and potlicker staining their whiskers.

The Kaintuck' Darby is one of the brightest sport lives in the roscoe of America. And I never tire of hearing Col. Matt Winn, the original glorifier of the event, tell how it is not the horses alone which run on his hallowed turf, but the traditions of bygone romance, dimmed echoes of poetry from the long ago, the ghosts of ancient glories, ideals and heroes. And the Old Kunnel, who is a bit of an orchidaceous talker, will always add that, though the people in his end of the State worshipping a fast horse and adored lovely ladies, they still adhered to the two traditional sports of the region—voting the Democratic ticket and running from the revenue officers.

The good Kunnel never admits it. But actually the Kentucky Derby sprouted from a localized horse breeders' carnival before World War I when a Bowery boy wrote "My Old Kentucky Home"—a melodrama replete with theatrical drip and honey-suckle hokey. It was a head-on smash hit about a luscious daughter of an impoverished southern family, blooded colt, handsome rich boy, dirty work and the big historic moment when "an astounding spectacle of genuine thoroughbreds in real life action" was presented on the stage.

The U. S. theater patrons were pretty unsophisticated at the time and flocked to see the dramatic climax when a couple of spavined cab-nags, jacked to a frenzied clatter, and heaved in a deathless, cheek-to-cheek struggle and the stage hands in the wings clapped some coconut halves together to simulate the staccato of horse hooves.

"Come on Remorse"

THE IMMORTAL CATCH LINE that has lived down the years was "Come on Remorse," the name of the delicious daughter's boss and squealed by some cork smudged "darkies." It was strictly save-the-old-homestead stuff and a crude attempt to tamper with people's heart strings. But it was also a sentimental triumph which made the Kentucky Derby from a kind of commercial medicine show into the national commercial feature of the U. S. race calendar, and induced horse tourists to flock down to squander real money in a grand cere-scendo of noise and nonsense—of which this Derby is reckoned as the pinnacle of all time.

The tourists may have disabused themselves of notions that goat-bearded colonels clutter up the Derby scene, sticking their snoots in juleps and growling "Suh" and breathing prayers to Robert E. Lee and maledictions on the Yankees. There are no goat-bearded colonels and the julep is a harsh potion swallowed by romantics from Peoria, Buffalo and points north who find afterward they prefer a shock of straight Scotch. The tradition lives chiefly in the vapors of credulous minds.

But the true flavor of Kentucky's horse heaven is in the open country around Lexington, a few miles east of Louisville, where there is an atmosphere of columbine and Stephen Foster's melodies and the steel is God's noblest creature. There the hills roll away in varied shades of cobalt, azure, amethyst, cerulean and sapphire, layers of misted color that change with the shifting sun. Winding roads run between the neighboring farms where spindle-legged colts trot down to peer, star-eyed, at the breeds of human inferiority passing by. Bees busy with clover seem to hum about the lazy negligence of life in this ample land, their buzz saying "South... Oooold South."

A lark burbles fluted sound like liquid silver and faraway comes the wail of a negro child like the lament from the soul of that "dark and bloody ground." Lexington is like that in springtime. For there in the subsoil lies the secret of the Blue Grass region—like the Curragh of Ireland. Long ago, in primeval times, nature marked both plains as an animal Eden, salting the soil with rich nitrates and phosphates which tinge the turf purple and make the grass grow lush, sweet, bone building and hock high through nine months in the year. So there the nourishing grasses feed the horses and in its turn the horse, through years of selective breeding, glorifies man and makes him rich, socially prominent and respected. That is the true essence of Kentucky's horse grandeur.

Hughson Opposes Sain

By BILL GRIMES

HARTFORD, Ct., April 11—On their way home for the annual Intra-City series, which opens tomorrow at Fenway Park, the Red Sox and Braves dropped off here to play an exhibition game this afternoon at Bulkeley Stadium. The Boston clubs were not impressive during the barnstorming trips from their respective training camps. The Tribe dropped seven out of nine games to the Detroit Tigers, holders of the world's championship crown, and the Yawkeymen took only one double-header from Bill McKeechie's lowly Reds.

Although they are keeping their endeavors strictly sub-rosa, the Braves are trying to get Manager Billy Southworth some help. They realize that even a director of Southworth's proven ability cannot produce unless he has the necessary tools. The Tribes' pitching corps requires some immediate bolstering. It cannot hope to function successfully with Mort Cooper, Jim Sain, Ed Wright, Jimmy Wallace, Elmer Singleton and Earl Reid. The owners must come up with at least one more southpaw.

With the exception of right field, the Braves haven't had any serious outfield problems to solve. Bama Rowell and Johnny Hopp would be standouts on any major league club, but Tommy Holmes and Max West have failed to live up to expectations.

Southworth will send Sain to the minors to show while Manager Joe Cronin will likely "Tex" Hughson, his lanky right hander, who has a varied assortment of deliveries. Sain limited the Red Sox to one hit, a home run by Leon Culberson, in three innings during the Memorial game at Ft. Lauderdale late last month. Then Jimmy Wallace took over and the Braves went on to take a 5 to 2 verdict.

After the game, the two squads will board a Boston train and are due to arrive at the Huntington ave. station about 9:30 tonight.

The Sox and Braves open their home season tomorrow at Fenway.

The Braves and their new manager, Bill Southworth, will play Holy Cross at Filton Field Monday. General Manager John Quinn made the announcement today that the Tribe faced an idle day following their city series with the Red Sox. Holy Cross will open its regular season April 20 against Colgate University.

Conn Hurt

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. J., April 11 (AP)—Johnny Ray, manager of heavyweight challenger Billy Conn, said today that the Pittsburgh boxer suffered "a little nip in the fleshy part of the left thumb yesterday but will be back in the ring boxing on Sunday."

Ray said that Conn, who meets champion Joe Louis in New York's Yankee Stadium on June 19, suffered the injury when the scissors slipped as the tape was being cut from Conn's hand after yesterday's workout. "He is well along in his boxing and I gave him today off," said Ray. "He is spending it at Atlantic City."

Truman Accepts Pitching Honor

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The Washington Senators "signed up" a well known southpaw as next Tuesday's opening day pitcher—President Harry S. Truman.

Mr. Truman formally accepted an invitation to toss out the first ball when Owner Clark Griffith of the Senators and President Ford Frick, National League, called at the White House.

Griffith later said that the President was "in rare form."

"He took us out on the White House lawn for pictures by news and movie cameramen," Griffith said. "When I asked him if he was ready to pitch, he said, 'sure,' and up came his left hand."

This caused Griffith to remark, "Heavens, I've signed up another southpaw." (The Senators are preponderantly left-handed this season.)

The President received gold-initialed passes for the two major league races and Mrs. Truman was presented an American League pass in a fitted handbag.

Thirty-two persons will be in the President's party for the 1946 American League starter between the Senators and slugger Ted Williams and company of the Boston Red Sox.

Vince Dundee Facing Death

GLENDAL, Cal., April 11 (AP)—Physicians have abandoned hope of saving the life of Vince Dundee, world's middleweight champion in 1933-34.

Dundee was stricken with progressive paralysis four years ago. It has spread and now he is bed-ridden, can barely speak. Doctors diagnosed his ailment as a blocked nerve at the base of the brain.

Dundee's wife said the Baltimore-born boxer sustained injuries in a bout with Freddie Steele in Seattle in 1935 that led to his retirement from the game.

The game Dundee, badly hurt in the first round, was knocked down time and again before being knocked out in the third. Steele went on the next year to gain the middleweight title from Babe Risko. That year Dundee was out of boxing, but he came back in 1937, fighting Billy Conn, among others. He went the distance in all his bouts and won two by kayos.

But that was his last year in boxing. Vince won the title in 1933 from Lou Brouillard, lost it to Teddy Yarosz the next year.

He was born Vincent Lazzaro 38 years ago. He and his brothers Joe, ex-welterweight champion, and Mike, a lightweight, took the name Dundee in the ring.

Here Come the Red Sox

Dobson Should Be Ready To Aid Hughson, Ferriss

By HERB FINNEGAN

One of the enigmas of the baseball world is Joseph Gordon Dobson of the Red Sox. The 6-2, 195-lb. right-hander has been in the league since 1939, never won more than 12 games in a season when everybody was wondering why he didn't win 25. He's back in Sox haberdashery after a two-year hitch in the infantry, is blowing the ball past enemy hitters again, and now the folks are asking: "Is he another Jack Wilson or Paul Derringer?"

Joe Dobson

Wilson was fast, extremely fast. He had one good year with the Sox, kept getting worse and worse. Derringer in '33 won seven, lost 27, two years later won 22, lost 13 and went on improving from there.

Dobson joined the Sox in '41, won 12, lost 5. Next year he won 11, lost 9. His last year, '43, he won 7, lost 11. Is that progress? "Yes," Dobson insists. "Look up my earned run average. 'His ERA in '41 was 4.50, in '42 3.30, in '43 3.13."

"That's the proof," he said. "You must remember we had lost Williams and DiMaggio in '43, and Al Simmons and Dee Miles were poor imitations. Many a game they lost for me by dropping fly balls. I lost more 1-0, 2-1 games in '43 than I care to recall."

Dobson has had his big moments. A 2-0, 4-hit shutout he pitched for the Indians in Fenway Park was the main reason the Sox bought him after the '40 season. Two years later, against his old club, he had a no-hit, no-run, no-earned run Lou Boudreau singled to open the seventh. Oris Hockett singled in the 10th, and they were the only two men to reach first base as Dobson won 1-0.

Unlike Earl Johnson, Larry Powell and Bill Butler, Dobson pitched plenty of baseball in the service. He was stationed at Camp Wheeler, Ga., in '44, was transferred late in '45 to Camp San Luis Obispo in California. In two seasons of service ball he won 45 games, lost only six.

"He pitched last Nov. 2 against a group of all-stars on the Coast," Bobby Doerr recalls. "Don Ross, Eddie Miller, Tuck Stainback and Gerry Priddy were with the all-stars. They said they never saw anything quite like Dobson before. He was lightning fast."

"I never could understand why he doesn't win 30 every year," sighed Mace Brown. "I wish I had his arm. He's got as much stuff as Hughson, but he doesn't get the results." The Braves said the same thing in '43 after Dobson blinded them in a city series game.

Dobson's trouble may be over-anxiety. Nobody in either major league could possibly work harder. He ran so much at Sarasota his legs ached continually. But he kept running. His arm was heavy at times but he kept throwing. He's never on the rubbering table, asks no favors.

Life had to overcome the loss of part of this thumb and forefinger on his gloved hand to get as far as he is. "Dynamic cap went off in my hand when I was eight years old in Phoenix, Ariz.," he said.

He married a Tennessee girl when he was pitching for New Orleans in the Southern Association. He has a boy, Joe, Jr., six. His wife died two years ago, and he married again. Joe, Jr., lived with his maternal grandparents while he was in the service. "He's a softball player," laughed Joe. "But I'll start him playing hard ball this year. Sure, I want him to be a big leaguer."

Dobson is one of the several "ifs" on the Red Sox. If he comes through, and if Earl Johnson, Bill Butler, Mickey Harris follow suit, the Sox will be hard to beat anytime, anywhere. Some of them have got to be good because Hughson and Ferriss can't carry the load alone. Even the 1914 Braves had Rudolph, James and Tyler, and pennant winners of the present day usually have five dependable starting pitchers.

"Count me as one of them," said Dobson. "I've been a different man since I had my tonsils out in '43. I haven't had a sick day since, and this spring I can honestly say I feel better than I ever did in my life."

He's 29 now, never will be better physically equipped to make his mark. This is his make-or-break year. This is the year that will tell whether he'll be a Wilson or Derringer. He should be a Derringer.

Tomorrow—Earl Johnson

College Degree First for Champ

The completion of a college education in accordance with his father's wish, may keep one of the most promising amateur boxers in the country away from professional ranks for at least two years. Robert Foxworth, 175-pound colored lad from Chicago, and he welcomed the sound of the bell that ended the fight.

Despite public sentiment in his favor, Joe Velez of Seattle, Wash. dropped a unanimous verdict to another Marine, Joe Discipoli.

Handicapped by a left leg which is shorter than the right, Joe tried hard but was unable to solve the southpaw slants of Discipoli. As he left the ring Velez was given a thunderous ovation by the fans who appreciated his courage in trying to overcome the effects of infantile paralysis which left its mark on his body when only an infant.

Hawaii has invited all the National Champions to participate in a tourney to be held on the island in May or early June. Only two knockouts were scored during the 24 fights of the semi-finals and finals.

Duplicate trophies were given to the Hawaiian and the Cherry Point teams from the Marine base at North Carolina. One trophy was originally scheduled to be given to the outstanding team which would have been Hawaii, as they won three classes, but the sensational showing of Harold Anspach, in the 160-pound class, swayed the officials and they decided on a twin award.

Anspach was the darling of the fans as a result of his melee with the wild swinging Stanley Shealey of Chicago. Both Shealey and Anspach hit the canvas twice in the second round and it was only a question of stamina, and Anspach had more staying power.

Tall, rangy, and a terrific hitter, Shealey was always dangerous but a steady body pounding by the Marine slowed him down to a walk.

Straight Shot Most Difficult

By BYRON NELSON

Believe it or not, the hardest shot in golf is to hit the ball straight. Actually, it is easier to cut the ball or hook it and some of the greatest golfers have played a lifetime without ever actually straightening out their shots.

When I was an amateur some years ago I developed a shank. Shanking means hitting the ball up in the socket of the club, causing the ball to fly practically at right angles.

One day I was practicing alone and I shanked so badly that I became hysterical and broke right down and cried.

I concluded my swing was too flat on my backswing. That would cause me to hit too much on the inside, swinging the club away from my body too far as it went through.

I decided to cut down my body turn a trifle and to take the club back slightly outside of the ball, knowing this would produce a slice. I also restricted the length of my backswing. I sliced then, but at least I didn't shank any more.

I can hear somebody ask why I felt better because I was slicing instead of shanking, pointing out that a slice is just as poor golfing form as shanking. That's true, but once I cured myself of shanking it was a simple matter to cure the slicing because I was doing it deliberately.

Instead of taking the clubhead back slightly outside of the ball, I started taking it back straight from the ball. This was easy to do with my somewhat restricted pivot. I also made a study of my wrist action, making only a slight break at the top of the swing. I found that helped to straighten out my shots.

If it hadn't been for that early habit of shanking I probably wouldn't have discovered so much about the mechanics of the game so soon and thus learned to control it.

Lynch, Buckley Top BC Fielders

Coch Fred Maguire of Boston College is holding off on naming his outfield until after the intersquad games that will feature the workouts at the end of this week.

A pair who have been standouts since the opening practice session are Bob Lynch and John Buckley, who have consistently been belting the ball. Both are veterans of previous campaigns under Maguire. Lynch matriculated at the Heights in 1941 as a freshman and was a regular moundsman.

It is possible that Johnny Spinner may be converted to an outer gardener should Bernie Lanoue, now working with Denny Myers' gridders, win the first base post. Lanoue's return to the diamond will bolster the Eagles for he is a classy fielder and a heavy hitter.

Strike Threatens Gansett Opening

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 11 (INS)—Local 251 Teamsters Union, A. F. of L., began picketing of Narragansett Park horse race track yesterday in a campaign to organize 19 truck drivers employed at the track.

The local said it established the picket lines after unsuccessful efforts to contact Judge James E. Dooley, president of Narragansett Racing Ass'n. Union truck drivers bringing equipment and supplies to the track, which opens April 20 for the spring meeting, refused to pass through the picket lines. Included among undelivered goods were hay and grain for 300 horses now stabled at the track.
